Sermon :: 20-Apr-2025 The Great Vigil of Easter, Year C

"Exuberant" Of an Easter Eve

The shadows pass, the darkness lifts
The Son returns to lightThe Day of Joy, the Feast of LifeEternal, in His sight.

Repentance made, confession said, Wills turned to God on high: We come with hope, bare Tomb to see, The Son of God to spy ~

∼ Raised from the grave, exempt from fate
 Of un-salvated man:
 To see the world and set its course
 Full-on to God's mapped plan.

He conquered Death, He slew the Slay'r, He birthed eternity For creature poor and common cur Our God to know and see ∼

 ∼ In Paradise, long Eden sought, To dance with Christ alway;
 To sup on grace and drink of life, With saints to ever stay.

He's dammed the grave; He's barred the gates Of time to close our days; And lifted us, upon His Rise, To holy, timeless place:

We there to dwell, in goodness great, With all we've ever known: Where all is still and none do vie Nor lack nor ail nor groan.

** ** **

Our hearts break free, this Easter Eve Of sorrow, care and woe, To sing the Christ—forever līve— On us for to bestow ∼

~ The radiancy of angel's face, The cry "10, 10, 10,"* To burst the bounds of earth and flesh, Our Savior e'er to know.

We rise, we run, we shout and sing The Easter Allelu. We clap, we spin, we feast, we pray: He's ris'n, and we are, too.

So let us, now, this holiest eve Shout boldly to the night: "The Lord's alive: He rules, He reigns"; The Light is clear and bright.

Breaks in the Day of Victory
O'er sin and grief and woe:
We jump, we joy, we drink the cup:
Eternal life, made so.

We revel with the risen Lord
We dance with Christ our friend:
For all good things, all right, all love,
Are all mankind's, NO END.

AMEN.

THE REV DOUGLAS S WORTHINGTON All Souls' Episcopal Church San Diego, CA

© 2025 Douglas S Worthington, all rights reserved

- 2 -

^{*} A Latin interjection of excitement or joy.